Best Case Scenarios

Smarty designed midsize luggage encourages a quick getaway.

Just the right size for business trips, this bag has telescoping handles, wheels, and a subtle geometric design. (Apr. 9, $160; kohls.com)

A soft but structured duffel, in sporty red and green with one cavernous compartment, can be crammed flat under a bed. (Lacoste, $285; Macy's, 800-622-9748)

Nimble wheels and a lightweight plastic shell are useful for navigating a crowded airport and protecting packed clothes; a zippered expander adds 25 percent more space. (International Traveller Luggage, $295; amazon.com)

Inner organizers make this smooth-riding bag from the ever-orderly Swiss particularly all-purpose. (Victorinox, $330; macy.com)

A whimsical soft vinyl duffel with multiple handles and straps lets you choose the most comfortable way to carry it. (Cora Kelly, $444; orakiele.com)

This made-to-last polycarbonate suitcase has lots of extras: built-in combination lock, garment bag, dividers, and lifetime warranty. (Titan, $680; titanluggageusa.com for stores)

From a brand that built its name on dependable luggage comes this new, wild nylon suitcase that's impossible to miss at baggage claim. (609; tumi.com)

This fashionable patent-leather case stacks neatly in the trunk. The outer compartment zips securely; inner straps fasten like chic belts to keep clothes in place. (Kate Spade, $795; 800-919-2778)

Jet-setters—or those who own their own jet—will be transporting this elegant French luggage covered in the brand's signature handpainted chevron motif. (Goyard, $6,700; 415-368-9100) —Brooke Kosofsky Glassberg
