inside rolling luggage, you can pack more and travel lighter than with many other luggage brands on wheels," says Rankin.

Karen Schiefler, senior marketing manager at Delsey Luggage, notes the company recently introduced its newest, lightest weight line, just in time for the holiday travel season. Helium HyperLite consists of nine styles, including upright rolling trolleys and multiple sizes of rolling duffels, in a can't-miss color palette of azure blue, fern green, charcoal grey and fire red.

"Picture the family with two kids lying to see the grandparents," says Schiefler. "Each child can pick a size and color of duffel to suit their individuality and that holds all of their precious 'stuff' — and is easy to spot on the baggage carousel because of the color choices."

Because of their large capacity, loading up Helium HyperLite bags is a snap. Children can smoothly navigate their way from the house through the terminal and to their final destination with these lightweight yet durable and smooth-rolling duffels — and parents can press the upright trolleys into stylish service for their more sophisticated travel needs.

Helium HyperLite bags also fill the baggage bill for cruising families, who can collapse and stow duffels in the always stinky quarters of their state-rooms, and for adventure-seeking families who can comfortably pack their down parkas and sweaters — even hiking gear — in duffels sized from carry-on capacity to the mighty 35" checked piece.

Another lightweight luggage line that gives families on-the-fly heavy duty results is Titan's 360° Four Diamond Edition that includes the 19" International Carry-on (available in ocean blue and red) and the 27" Trolley (available in red and champagne). This four-wheeled luggage with smooth four-roller system makes for nearly effortless travel. Best of all, the 27" Trolley weighs just 10.4 lbs. (without accessories) so it can hold nearly 40 lbs. of packables without tipping the scales of the airline's 50-lb. weight limit.

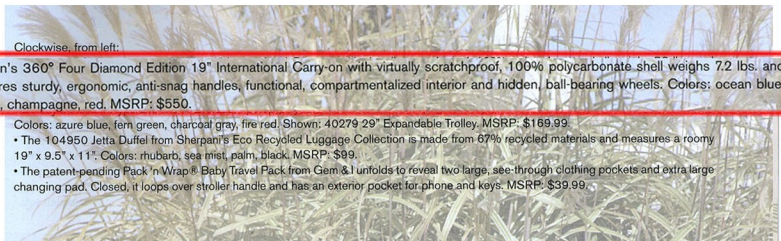

"A mom can push two Titan bags weighing 100 lbs. combined back-to-back [as pictured], allowing one free hand to be used as needed," says Kelly Reubens, vice president of sales. "And the 19" International Carry-on is great for kids because it allows them to carry and be responsible for luggage of their own and, at 7.2 lbs., is very light."

The Diamond Edition luggage is virtually scratch- and scuff-proof — a priority consideration for families traveling with children.

Says Reubens, "Children can be rough with luggage, but Titan luggage comes with a 'No Matter What' lifetime warranty, so no matter what happens, the family is covered."
